

STRAIGHT SONG

This is a straight song
it's made for you
It shouldn't take long
'cuz that's not what I want to do
And all I wanted
well, it keeps on coming true Why shouldn't you?

You've got to die a little if you really want to go It's got to hurt a little if you really want to know So let's lie a little together you and me
And be as true as true can be

He who wants to know
must surely hold his body
As he who holds the door
will surely know
A showdown

I'd feel the world for you if you weren't doing it for me I'd steal the girl in you if you weren't letting her go free

I would pretend I would pretend to be a friend if that was what we had to be

I'll cross the threshold
into the lair
I'll pat the lion on its head
I won't despair
I won't despair
though claws are sharp and they might tear I will be bringing it back to you you know I will

He who wants to know
must surely hold
his body
As
he who holds
the door
will surely know
A showdown

I've never been there
I want to go
But I don't dance
so do you want to stay after the show?
For now I'll stand here with my back against the wall watching everything you do
